hello,

i may be missing something, but do you have to manually create the same sections and categories in the site you are importing into first, or is there a way to tell the export/import process to create the sections and categories if they don't exist ?

great component BTW..

found it under import sections - silly me

This will transfer the Section(s) listed and the categories, content items (also listed) contained within the sections(s).

import process will create the sections and categories,so you do not create it first.
